NoiseBuster® Headphones from Pro Tech Communications

Editorial review from Stacy Waite: I travel a lot and spend a lot of time on airplanes. The NoiseBuster® Noise Canceling Headphones are designed to decrease exterior noise while delivering quality audio sound and they do just that. When flying, the headphones reduce the sounds from the cabin, including engine noise, by electronically cancelling irritating soundwaves. But, they also deliver first-quality audio from the plane's onboard audio system without distortion.

The headphones sit comfortably on the head and are lightweight. The earcups do not completely cover the ears. This allows limited noise in, for instance when the flight attendant is taking beverage requests or your seat partner is asking you to get up so they can go to the bathroom. At the same time, it makes it easier to wear the headphones for a prolonged time, such as for movies. The headband has a large adjustment range and folds for easy carrying. In fact, the whole unit folds down into its very own small pouch. The unit comes with an adaptor so it can work with most onboard audio systems.

At a retail price of only $69, and with airlines charging for headphone rentals, the NoiseBuster® Noise Canceling Headphones are a travel necessity.
